The foregoing represents the financial affairs of the Town of Lebanon for the past year, according to the accounts of the Selectmen, which have been found correct and properly vouched.

Fortune has smiled upon our financial affairs during the year ending March 1, 1868, and our debt has been reduced $7,835 12. This pleasant fact is owing in a great measure to the Railroad tax, which amounts this year to the sum of $3906 39

Also to the new Bank Tax received for the first time,	1089 00
Also from Government bounties,	646 00
And from a substitute case against W. Heath, (over costs.)	587 00

In regard to Highways and Bridges, it will be seen by comparing the sums paid for the last two years, that there has been saved to the Town by the course adopted last year, about $300; and it is said that permanent improvements have been made, and the roads in the Autumn were in a better state of repair than usual.

A new provision in the dog law directs that the income from that source, after paying all damages caused by unlawful desire of dogs for mutton, shall be equally distributed among the several school districts the present year, and the accruing income shall be divided hereafter, in the same manner, at the end of every two years. The sum thus far received is $430 00, which has been used for town purposes. In compliance with the provisions of the law, I have added said sum to the Town indebtedness as due to the several school districts, and when distributed, each single school district will receive $26 90 in addition to their usual proportion of school money. By reference to the Dog Report, it appears that the tax silenced the barking of nineteen poor fellows during the first year, which put the rest upon their good behavior, and with true dog-manhoo*d*, they have revered the law, submitted without a growl to its operation, and have not been known to wag a tail, lick a chop, or even wistfully look a sheep in the face, for four years. In view of these facts, we may truly say, that the Legislators, who made the law, and the dogs, by refraining from evil, have made it effectual for promoting the cause of education, and are equally entitled to our kindest consideration—and to our gratitude for having harmonized in “barking up the right tree.” All of which is respectfully submitted,

C. C. BENTON, Auditor.

REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The Superintending School Committee respectfully submits the following report of the schools of Lebanon, for the year ending March 10th, 1868.

DISTRICT No. 1.

Summer Term. Miss Maggie Moore. Teacher too young, without experience, not always judicious. The school made some progress. Winter Term. Miss Margarette Choate. The school was orderly, studious, making good progress.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Primary Department. Summer Term. Miss Ida George. This primary department is difficult to manage, to keep reasonably quiet and to advance in study. Miss George endeavored to do well, but lacked experience in the best methods. Winter Term. Miss Emma N. Miller. What is said of the Summer Term is equally applicable to the Winter Term.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Higher Department. Summer and Winter Terms. Miss Mary E. Muchmore. Miss Muchmore has experience, energy, and the tact of government, and is always successful. This school was well managed, and made excellent progress.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Summer Term. Miss Jessie M. Hosley. Miss Hosley is a young teacher, but well qualified in studies, energetic, and made an excellent beginning. Winter Term. Miss S. M. Freeman. The school was orderly, attentive to their studies, and made good progress.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Summer Term. Miss Flora E. House. A first attempt, with fair success. Winter Term. Miss Emma J. Hall. Miss Hall improves each Term as a teacher. This school, under her charge, made fine improvement.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Winter Term only. Mr. Samuel P. Wood, who did justice to his former reputation, and to the school.

Winter Term only. Miss Emma F. Farnum. This was Miss Farnum's first attempt in teaching, and was every way successful.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Fall and Winter Terms. Miss E. Josie Perley. This school gave evidence of being well taught, and well managed.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Summer and Winter Terms. Lucy A. Miller, who has had long experience and has profited by it. We have never seen better evidence of improvement in this school, than at the close of the Winter term.

DISTRICT No. 9.

Summer Term. Miss Carrie M. George, who has many good qualities for a teacher, which experience will bring out. The school under her care made fair progress.

Winter Term. Miss Clara J. Gates, who always does well. We thought her school this term even better than usual.

DISTRICT No. 10.

Summer and Winter Terms. Miss Junia S. Bartlett. The school always appeared well at our visits, and we thought gave evidence of careful teaching, and study on the part of the scholars. We learn, however, that there was dissatisfaction, on the part of some.

DISTRICT No. 11.

Summer term, Miss Allie E. Briggs. The school made fair improvement. Winter Term, Miss Samantha R. Kinn. This school was every way successful. Some of the examinations in Arithmetic showed superior knowledge in that branch.

DISTRICT No. 12.

Summer and Fall Terms, Miss Sarah Gile. Miss Gile has taught this school a number of successive terms, and always with profit to the school and credit to herself. We found much to approve in the school.

DISTRICT No. 13.

Summer Term. Miss S. M. Freeman. The teacher was well qualified, and the scholars proved that they could do well, if they tried. We were glad to praise the school. Winter Term. Miss Ellen J. Bailey. Miss Bailey is a good teacher, has been successful elsewhere, but was not able to contend successfully with elements which have hitherto operated to the injury of this school.

UNION DISTRICT Nos. 14 & 15.

Summer Term. Primary Department. Miss Ella M. Cushman. A first attempt and with good success.

Second Department. Miss Nellie F. Smalley, who managed the school with her wonted ability and success.

Third Department. Miss Nellie E. Rogers. Under her care the school made fair improvement.

Higher Department. Miss Lizzie Z. Emerson. There was some lack of order in this school, but there was evidence of good teaching, and the scholars made good progress.

Winter Term. Primary Department. Miss Helen M. Perkins—her first experience in a difficult position. The school at its close showed very gratifying improvement. Of course the quiet and order of larger scholars are not to be expected in such a school as this.

Second Department. Miss Ella B. Emerson. This is a very difficult school to manage, to preserve proper order, and advance the scholars in study. Miss Emerson has many good qualities for a teacher, but seemed to fail in that vigilance and decision needed in such a school as this. Few indeed are the teachers capable of entire success in this place.

Third Department. Miss Nellie F. Smalley. There was great interest manifested on the part of the scholars, they were properly guided and made most gratifying progress.

Higher Department. Miss Lizzie Z. Emerson. Probably the failure of the teacher's health made a difference in this school, in the matter of its government and instruction. After seven weeks she was obliged, by ill health, to resign the school.

Mr. Roger Smalley finished the term of five weeks. Under his care the school was orderly and made good progress in their studies. The closing exhibition gave gratifying evidence of the abilities and progress of the scholars in the various departments. Considering the importance, and the general neglect of the study of Geography, prizes were offered for the best scholars in that branch in the third and fourth departments. The award was to Miss Carrie M. George, Fred Cheney and Hattie Cushman. Miss Smalley also offered a prize for spelling. Gained by Mary Fairbanks, Nellie Cutting, Ella Brooks and Frank Sturtevant. For the true interests of this District at least two things are needed. First: a male teacher should be employed in the Fourth Department. Such a school needs a Master in every sense. Second: the arrangements for the different departments could not well be worse. There are four school-rooms, so situated in respect to each other, that any movement of scholars in one disturbs all the rest. As a consequence, much time is lost in all the schools, by noise and confusion. The present prospect is that the building will soon cease to even contain all the scholars. When the building is insufficient for the numbers, we hope some better plan will be devised for school-rooms.

DISTRICT No. 16.

Summer and Winter Terms. Mrs. F. A. Hyde, who is a very quiet teacher, but knows how to secure good order, and progress in study. We have never been better satisfied with the condition of this school.

In conclusion we would make a single suggestion to teachers, as to the mode of conducting recitations. Give your time and your attention wholly to the recitation. Allow no scholar, outside of the class, to come to you with any request; answer no questions; attend to no raised hand. We have seen recitations too often conducted somewhat in this way: The class being in position, the teacher puts a question. Just then a scholar comes up with some request, to which the teacher attends. In the meantime the scholar has answered; but the teacher does not know whether correctly or not. The question must be repeated, or the answer left in doubt. And so on through the recitation. We have seen as many as a dozen such interruptions during a single recitation. Now it is impossible for a class to receive any benefit under such circumstances. Attend to one thing at a time. Hold the time of recitation sacred to its one purpose; and require the whole school to so hold it.

A law, passed in the last session of the legislature, requires a larger amount to be devoted to schools. We hope that all our Districts will take advantage of this fact, and seek for longer terms and better teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES A. DOWNS, S. S. Committee.
